

Presents Two Courses hosted by the
St. Paul Police Department

Intermediate Handgun & Low Level Light

Taught by Scott Reitz of the L.A.P.D. Metro/SWAT

May 5-6, 2011 Intermediate Handgun
May 7, 2011 Low Level Light

ITTS offers one three-day Intermediate Handgun class with low level light on the third day, or the classes may be taken separately as a two-day Intermediate class and a one-day Low Level Light class. This is a high-level intermediate course which challenges any competent shooter. We emphasize balancing speed and accuracy, immediate reactive skills, high proficiency in dealing with malfunctions, multiple threats engagement at speed, long distance shooting at speed and transitioning from strong to weak hand when applicable and low level light techniques.

Tuition for Intermediate Handgun - $395, Low Level Light only - $225
Both classes - $510

As a 30-year veteran of the L.A.P.D., Scott Reitz spent 26 years in the elite Metropolitan Division (SWAT, K-9, Mounted and High Risk deployment) with 10 years as an operator and instructor in S.W.A.T. For the last several years, he was upgraded to the position as the primary firearms instructor for the Metropolitan Division and responsible for all in-service training for the department. During his career as a field officer with the Metropolitan Division, Scott was involved in 5 officer-involved shootings, all in policy with successful outcomes. Scott is an F.B.I. certified law enforcement instructor and has trained with SEAL Team 6, Delta and the F.B.I.'s HRT in counter-terrorist operations and participated in Recon Battalion anti-terrorist fleet training with the U.S. Marine Corp at Camp Pendleton. He also spent several years as an adjunct instructor for the Department of Energy's SRT-III training in New Mexico. Scott is a use of deadly force expert witness in police defense cases for the Superior and Federal Courts and works as a lecturer and consultant on high profile cases for law firms, the District Attorney's office and the U.S. Government. He is the head firearms instructor for International Tactical Training Seminars, Inc. (I.T.T.S.), a private firearms school in Los Angeles.
